QUICK MANUAL

SND Pad Player v. 0.3.0.8 beta is a simple freeware Sound Pad Player for streamers and podcasters. The SND Pad Player v. 0.3.0.8 beta software can be used with podcast sound cards and Audio interfaces that have an computer Audio connection, but lack the desired number of Audio sound pads.

The Software main form has ten Buttons for each of which you can align the Audio file (WAV, MP3) from your computer. Pressing the certain Button or similar number on the keyboard will start playing that Audio file. Pressing the same button a second time will stop playback and the player's pointer will move to the beginning of the Audio file.

An Audio file is associated with each push button by clicking on the Title below the push button ('Select a Pad File') and selecting the desired Audio file via the file manager. Two Pads can not contain the same audio sample, if you try to open the same Audio file in two different Pads, the software warns you and will not allowe it. Right-click the Pad Title to reset the Pad.

The selected Audio Pad collection can be saved as a Preset list (the file extension is .sppf*) and the existing Preset list can be reopened. The Preset list only stores the location data of those Audio files on your hard drive, not the Audio files themselves.

SND Pad Player is in beta testing stage. Any bug reports, inquiries, feedback, and suggestions for improvement regarding the program are welcome! If you would like more information about the software or would like to provide feedback, which is most welcome, please send an email to
